Services provided - Key supplier of experienced Process Operators

The Client specialise in producing products in the PVC manufacturing supply chain.

With group revenues being over £35 billion, we are proud to work with one of the largest chemical manufacturers in the world, supporting their recruitment needs.

What did the Client need

The chemical manufacturing industry requires skilled personnel across all disciplines, to ensure the UK manufacturing sector is able to continue to grow and compete on a global scale. Being a COMAH site with products involving complex processing of caustic chemicals, our client needs high quality staff and contractors.

What was Millbank's solution

With decades of experience providing specialist recruitment solutions to companies in this sector, we have a comprehensive understanding of the process industry, including stringent health and safety standards, COMAH, specialty chemicals and chemical production and technology.

Having worked in partnership with the client for over 25 years, we understand their particular requirements. We have been continually able to support them and respond flexibly as resources are needed.

Since the turn of the century Millbank has placed over 290 Process Operators across our sites, supporting both permanent and contract requirements.

Summary

Millbank's timely provision of highly skilled Process Operators has enabled one of the world's biggest chemical manufacturers to run their production smoothly and adapt to changing market conditions.

Having a reliable long-term agency partner gives them confidence that future requirements will be filled, allowing them to draw business plans without concern about staffing difficulties and compete on a global scale.
